

Privacy Statement

How we use your information

This privacy notice provides information about the ways in which the office of Human Dignity Foundation (HDF) collects, stores, shares or keeps any personal information provided. We reserve the right to modify or amend this Policy from time to time without notice.

Cookies

We do not use cookies. Should we decide to use cookies in the future, we will not collect or store personal information without notifying you.

Search engine

The search facility on our website is an internal search function and only returns information that appears on the website.

Emailing us

Please be aware that it is the sender's responsibility to ensure that the content of their emails is within the bounds of the law. Unsolicited material of a criminal nature will be reported to the relevant authorities and blocked.

Disclosure

HDF will not disclose personal data without consent. We will not disclose your personal data to third parties except in instances where an individual has consented to the disclosure, or we are obliged by law to disclose the data. Third parties to whom we may disclose information include organisations such as An Garda Síochána.

Third Party Websites

Our Website contains links to sites operated by third parties. We provide these links as a convenience but do not endorse any linked site. The practices described in this Policy do not apply to these other websites and you visit them at your own risk.

Copyright and Infringement

Text, photos, videos, design elements, graphics, trademarks, trade names, and other materials found on this website are property of Human Dignity Foundation, its licensors or its content providers, except as noted on this site. The materials are protected by copyright, trademark, and other laws relating to intellectual property. They may not be copied, reproduced or otherwise used in any fashion except as (i) explicitly provided in this Policy or (ii) explicitly permitted in a specific instance in a written consent signed by our authorized representative.

Reproduction of materials licensed by HDF also requires the consent of the licensor. You are responsible for obtaining that consent. Most photographs, illustrations, and videos are licensed and other materials may be as well. Relevant documents must be used for learning purposes only.

General

HDF endeavours to keep its website secure but it has no responsibility or liability for any damages to, or viruses and similar malware that may infect, your computer or other equipment arising from your use of our website.

This is a live document, under regular review and was last updated in April 2018.

How to contact us:

If you require further information regarding our Privacy Statement, you can contact us at info@human-dignity-foundation.org or write to us at: Human Dignity Foundation, Steinengraben 5, CH 4051 Basel, Switzerland.